On 30 Days Trial.

With strength and capacity equal to any, regardless of cost. The Machine does away with all complications, and with the movement of Only Two Parts (the Needle and Foot), both simple and strong, it makes the stitch, feeds the Goods, half guides the Cloth, fastens the Seam, runs on Braid, gathers and Tucks, Hems and Embroiders. Remember, the movement of only two parts does all this, which entirely does away with all the complications so liable to get out of order, and as often the source of annoyance to the operator, besides the ravenous expenditure of force in propelling them. Our Sewing Machine requires the assistance of only one hand or even one finger, thus leaving the right hand entirely at liberty to ply the wheel, which runs easy and even as a well balanced wheel, with

PUBLIC LEDGER.

MEMPHIS.
Monday Evening, October 20, 1873.

WE consider it unnecessary to dis- pute the Appeal's assertion of circulation, as not a man, woman or child in Memphis believes it.

THE SITUATION.
Last night we had the first heavy frost of the season. It was visible everywhere at sunrise, as was a smile upon each face that peered out at that bracing hour. A marked abatement of the yellow fever will doubtless be recorded this week. The disease has not declined quite to the point of our expectations expressed a week ago, that is, it has not gone far down in the teens. But the diminution of deaths and of new cases begins to be quite perceptible. Our yellow fever reports, which come down eighteen hours later than those of the morning papers of the same day, and therefore cannot correspond except in aggregates, are as follows: Monday, October 13th, yellow fever, 36; total, 42. Tuesday, October 14th, yellow fever, 40; total, 47. Wednesday, October 15th, yellow fever, 35; total, 44. Thursday, October 16th, yellow fever, 19; total, 31. Friday, October 17th, yellow fever, 31; total, 39. Saturday, October 19th, yellow fever, 32; total, 34.
Saturday, October 19th, yellow fever, 30; total, 36. Monday, October 20th, yellow fever, 20; total, 26. The cool weather is always unfavorable to bad cases, and a slightly increased rate of mortality for a day or two will not be surprising. With another frost to night, which seems probable, a rapid decline of the sickness will be assured.
People at home should fumigate, disinfect and ventilate as much as ever.
Absentees had better remain such until called for. The worst is over, but it is too soon to rejoice and relax our vigilance.

MATTIE STEPHENSON.
Angel of Patience sent to calm Our feverish brows with cooling Whisper.

Few and low are the words that men say, and their hearts when her name is mentioned; warm the tears that women shed—bright the evergreens that maiden will plant around her grave.
The soft southern winds will plaintively sigh through the dark leaved magnolias that affection will plant over her quiet resting place. She has solved the great problem that puzzled prophets and philosophers, and gone, doubtless, to a higher reward. In the tragedy of life she acted no common part. With out knowing it, she has taught the world a great moral lesson. When she died, she only began to live on earth and in Heaven. The October winds will sym-phonize her whispered requiems o'er her precious dust, even as all nature seemed to sympathize on the dark day of her solemn obsequies. The sacrifice she made of her sweet existence was not in vain. Perfect examples are required to produce the highest types of character, even as the blood of martyrs is the seed of the church. The weak things of this world are often chosen to confound the mighty, and a weak girl, without prestige, wealth, or accidental fame, has come into our midst from a remote village to add lustre to the attributes of her sex.
She has done even more for the living and the unborn than the sick and dying.
In life she may have been ever so obscure, but in the posthumous gratitude of a people for whom she laid down her existence, she is immortalized. In verse, a soft rhymed poem; in history, a heroine; in tradition, a martyr to gentle impulses; of sublime faith, a chosen exponent; in the hearts of the people, an ideal of all that is good, beautiful and unselfish in life; her grave at Elmwood, a shrine where worth and beauty, heroism, womanhood and silver-haired old age will ever pay affectionate tribute.
For strangers the sympathetic young girl lost her life; let us show the world how our hearts are touched to their deepest depth, and that no calamity can make us forget to honor the fair martyr.
Without accepting any outside help, let our people rise with one accord and contribute a fund that will perpetuate her name, nobility and manner of death in a massive marble shaft of pure white.

THE MATTIE STEPHENSON MONUMENT
FUND.
As the LEDGER was the first journal to move in the suggestion of a monument over the grave of Miss Mattie Stephenson, it is proper that the Lampoon should follow this up by a subscription. The composers at present on duty, though low in numbers, and other attaches, started a subscription list this morning, and obtained the sum of $21, which will be held subject to any committee that may take the matter in hand. We would suggest that the Howard Association appoint a committee of citizens to receive similar contributions, and if enough is secured, proceed, immediately upon the abatement of the yellow fever, to have a suitable monument erected. Let us hear from the public. Suppose each Howard committee man carry a subscription list around in his district.

HAVE A CARE FOR THE FUTURE.
The first frost of the season occurred on the 6th and 7th of October. On the 16th of October the epidemic began to relax his hold on the throng. The next frost occurred a week later, and we are just now experiencing the beneficial results of the same. Ten days from today, say the 30th of October, the disease will be showing only fatal signs of life.
But still he will have power to kill many people, and power, through our want of knowledge in dealing with the matter. The germ of the disease, though killed by the frost in the open air, will still lurk in warm rooms and protected places, dormant, though alive, and will rally again when the temperature rises above seventy degrees, and begin new depredations and reproductions. We think the cases now developing are due to germs protected from the late frosts in the manner indicated. If such is the case, manifestly we should make an effort to destroy the hidden germs.
Fumigate every room in every house with the vapors of coal-tar or sulphurous acid gas. Sprinkle every floor and every hanging, and be sure you go under the beds, sofas, lounges and tables, with diluted carbolic acid; one part acid to fifty parts water. These precautions are very simple and inexpensive, and if they are adopted from this day to the first of November, a hundred or more valuable lives will be saved. Half a gallon of coal-tar, a pound each of sulphur and carbolic acid, comprise the materials needed in each household.
Let us entreat you, friends and brothers, not to neglect our advice. Do not jeopardize valuable life, when there is no necessity for so doing.

Probabilities.
WASHINGTON, October 20.—For Monday, in the Gulf States and interior of the South Atlantic States, clear, cold weather, with light northerly winds.
For the South Atlantic coast, cloudy and clearing weather, westerly winds and low temperature.
For the Middle States, northeast to northwest winds, with clouds and rain, clearing away Monday night.
For New England and coast, increasing easterly winds, clouds and rain.
For the lower lakes, northeasterly winds backing to northwest, with clouds and rainy weather, clearing away in the afternoon.
For the Ohio valley and upper lakes, clear weather, with light winds, mostly from the northwest.
Cautionary signals continue at Wilmington, Norfolk and Cape May, and are ordered for New York, New Haven, New London, Woods Hole, Boston and Baltimore.

Civility.
Apart from its worth as an agreeable trait of character, civility is a valuable commodity. Every one who has business to transact should add civility to his stock in trade. It costs nothing, while it vastly facilitates trade and profit.
There are business men and women who make fortunes simply by civility. Their wares or their services are no better probably than the stock and trade of their crusty neighbors. But, having undertaken a business, or adopted a profession, they are wise enough to know that whatever it is to be done successfully must be done with a good grace and with a good will. They do not show by their behavior that they consider everybody an intruder, but act in the persuasion that everybody may be made friendly.
They do not treat people as though they were in a hurry to be done with them at once and forever, but as though even a casual caller may be cultivated into a constant customer and made a constant benefit to the small courtesies of life is to insure profit for yourself.
And the reason that some persons are successful is that they invite strangers to become friends by civility, while the others repel even friends by the want of civility.

Wilder D. Foster, member of Congress from Michigan, died on September 25th, at Grand Rapids, Michigan. He was born in 1813, and was elected a member of the National House of Representatives in place of Thomas W. Ferry, when the latter was elected member of the Senate. He was re-elected to the present Congress in November, 1872, by a nearly 10,000 majority. He was a resident of Grand Rapids for thirty-five years, and accumulated a fortune while engaged in mercantile pursuits.

"I say, old fellow, what are your politics," said a witty Aberdeen man, quizzing another artisan. "Conservative—my father was conservative," he replied. "And what is your religion?" continued the other. "Protestant—my father was a Protestant," was the answer. "And why are you a bachelor?" said the other. "Because my father was a—oh, continued it, don't bother me with your stupid questions."

A Luckless Depositor.
New York Cor. of the Chicago Tribune.
A prominent lawyer, who had kept a large deposit for some time in the Broadway Bank, drew it out and placed it in the Atlantic Bank. When the Broadway Bank failed, last winter, he felicitated himself upon the change he had made.
Early in the spring he took his money from the Atlantic, and put it in the Union Trust Company. Soon after, the Atlantic closed its doors, and he was delighted to think how lucky he had been in not leaving his funds in its custody.
Last week the run began on the Union Trust, and he hurried to the bank, and by three hours of excitement, anxiety and crowding, he carried off his balance, and lodged it with Howes & Macy.
There he felt confident it would be safe, and was confounded on learning that they had also suspended. He is now of opinion that it was his destiny to have his money in some failing banking-house, and that, if he had changed it a hundred times, the ultimate result would have been the same.

Managing a Husband.
A Pennsylvania lady has a most romantic and ingenious way of managing the gentleman so happy as to be her husband. Exasperated by her persistent conversation, he ungallantly boxed her ears, the other day. The wretched woman cast but one lingering reproachful glance upon her lord and fled, simply observing as she departed that the briny deed should wash away the insult.
Leaving behind her everything most dear to her—the home of her married life full of beautiful and cherished memories—this heartbroken woman rushed frantically to the canal, and with one parting sigh, threw in a large stone with a mighty splash. Then she went and hid herself in the bushes and giggled, while her husband and twenty other men hurried up with horror depicted on their countenances, and wildly dragged the canal for her body. When the injured became convinced that the wretch had suffered enough, she appeared from behind the bushes and led him home, a resigned and willing victim.

DIED.

Care, only son of the late Caleb R. and Mrs.
Harriet B. Purser, aged 6 years and 1 week.
Interment at Raleigh Monday afternoon.
"Little Calie has gone home."

District 13—Comprises the Ninth Ward.
Committee, A. M. Stoddard and G. W. Dorland.
The above committees will visit their respective wards and evenings, to ascertain their needs.

We supply champagne, port wine, sherry, brandy, whiskies, ale, orange leaves, extract of fruit, mustard, lemons, and jams and medicines.
Applications for supplies will be filled for on the first of each month, at Adams street, 139 Main, and at those residing south of Adams at 38 Madison street, entrance in the alley.
Names will be furnished on application at headquarters, 42 Madison street.
Applications for either nurses or supplies, to insure attention, must be endorsed by the physicians or one of the Howard Committee.
Physicians for applicants north of Adams street will be supplied at 139 Main street; south of Adams street at 42 Madison street.
The following physicians are employed by the Association:
J. H. Simpson, J. H. Smith, J. H. Martin, J. H. B. Lonsdale, J. P. Robertson and E.
